Colour is about so much more than aesthetics. Your choices in paint, upholstery, and decor can also affect how you feel — and as a result, how you function — at home. So if you're in need of a major shift with the new year, consider outfitting your space with colours that enhance your mood and well-being. It's an easy but high-impact way to set the stage for all the new routines you're hoping to implement.

Need some inspo? Here are seven colours interior designers predict will surge in popularity in 2022.
